MANY IN FAVOR OF CLEANUP CAMPAIGN

Local People Anxious to Rid Alleys and Lots of Winter's Accumulation of Trash.

GENERAL MOVEMENT IS URGED

Activity in This Direction in Former Years Has Proved of Great Value to The City.

With the arrival of spring weather many local people are turning their attention to outdoor activities and are impressed with the urgent necessity of a concerted movement to rid their back lots, alleys and even many of the streets of the winter's accumulation of ashes, trash and rubbish. Many citizens have suggested the need of a clean-up and paint-up campaign this spring and quite a few are of the opinion that it should be conducted during the present month.

Clean-up campaigns are not new in this city. They have been conducted almost annually for the last eight or ten years with varying success, depending upon the co-operation and effort of the individual citizens. The value of a concerted movement in this direction is that the plans are carrying into every section of the city and owners of property who ordinarily give it little attention so far as appearances are concerned, readily assist in making the neighborhood more attractive.

There has probably never been a time within the last five years when so much trash and debris has collected in the city. Piles of ashes and rubbish have accumulated on almost every lot. Boxes filled to overflowing with tin cans and bottles mar the appearance of many yards. Dead weeds and trash of various kinds are found in the alleys and even many of the principal streets are in an unsightly condition. During the war period little attention was given to the general clean-up movement. A feeble attempt was made last year to restore the city to good order for the summer, but the movement was not well organized and while the results were good they did not extend far enough. As a result of the neglect during the last few years the amount of rubbish in all parts of the city is exceptionally large and the citizens feel that this is the proper time to have it hauled away.

In previous clean-up campaigns the city council and city officials have been glad to co-operate with the citizens in hauling away the trash. Concerted movements relieve the city of considerable expense during the summer months as the small accumulations of trash can be easily and quickly removed at little cost. The city also gets the advantage of having its lots, alleys and streets in first class condition for the summer when the clean-up campaign is waged energetically throughout the city in the early spring.

Seymour people have always taken pride in the appearance of their home surroundings. Few cities the size of this has as many well kept lawns as are found here, but a disordered lot in the midst of a well kept section stands out prominently and is a public eye sore. It has been suggested that an inspection of the city be made after the campaign is closed to see that nothing has been omitted that would mar the appearance of any section of the city. The inspection feature of the movement has proved valuable in that residents desire to have their premises in first class shape when the committee calls.

It is likely that an organization will be effected here within a few days to take charge of the general clean-up and paint-up campaign. An effort is being made, it is stated, to complete the preliminary plans before next Wednesday night when the city council will hold its regular session and the plans may then be presented. The councilmen likely will have some suggestions to offer as they are in direct charge of the streets and are familiar with the problems that arise in keeping them free of trash.

BURKART IS OUT OF RACE FOR AUDITOR

Believes He is Disqualified From Holding the Office Under the Indiana Constitution.

WITHDRAWAL IS A SURPRISE

Holds a Mayor is Judicial Officer and is Barred From Other Public Positions During Term.

Declaring that he is convinced that he would be disqualified under the Indiana constitution from serving as auditor of Jackson county in case of his nomination and election, Mayor C. W. Burkart, who has been a Democratic candidate for the nomination for that office for the last three months, today announced that he had withdrawn from the race. His action came as a surprise to Democratic political circles. He entered the primary contest about January 1 and has conducted an aggressive campaign since that time.

Mayor Burkart declares that on Tuesday night while looking up another matter he discovered the section of the constitution which he believes would bar him from the office he sought. On Wednesday he called the attention of several attorneys to the provision and he states that they agreed with him that he is ineligible to make the race. The grounds upon which Mr. Burkart made his decision add interest to his announcement.

The section of the constitution upon which Mr. Burkart bases his action follows:

"No person elected to a judicial office shall, during the term for which he shall have been elected, be eligible to any office of profit under the state other than a judicial office."

At first glance this provision does not appear to serve as a bar to a city mayor seeking another office not judicial, but there are several court decisions which present it in a different light. The supreme court in the appeal of Vogel vs. State, 107 Ind. 374, ruled that mayors of cities in Indiana are judicial officers.

In the Vogel case and also in the case of Smith vs. Moore, 90 Ind. 294, the supreme court rules that a person holding a judicial office may be elected during his term to an office not judicial when the term of the latter office does not begin until after the expiration of the term of the judicial office. Another opinion of the supreme court in the case of Waldo vs. Wallace 12 Ind. 569 holds that all judicial officers are ineligible to any office other than a judicial office during the term which they shall have been elected.

Mayor Burkart took his present position in January 1918 to serve four years. His term as mayor will not expire until January 1, 1922. Albert Luedtke, present auditor, will complete his second term December 31, 1920. Mayor Burkart explains that the auditor's office will be vacant before he has completed his term as Mayor of Seymour, and that he is therefore disqualified from accepting it.

It was proposed to Mayor Burkart that he resign as Mayor, but he was informed that this would not benefit him inasmuch as he is barred from holding any office not judicial during the four year period for which he was elected. The purpose of this constitutional provision, it is explained, is to prevent judicial officers from acting in their own behalf during their term of office. At the time the Constitution was adopted a city

TWO ROADS UNDER CONTROL OF STATE

French Lick Trail and North and South Highway Through County in Charge of Commission.

KNOWN AS HIGHWAYS 4 AND 1

Contracts for Permanent Improvement of Parts of Both Roads Already in Progress.

Two of the principal highways through Jackson county today passed into the control of the Indiana highway commission. The law under which the state highway system is to be maintained provides that the state shall assume supervision of designated roads on April 1. Approximately 250 miles of roadway in different counties in the state were taken over by the commission today.

Both of the roads in this county are subjected to heavy traffic. One officially designated at Highway No. 1, extends from the north to the south boundaries and forms a part of the road from New Albany to Indianapolis and thence to Chicago. The other, known as No. 4, passes through the county east and west and is a part of the old French Lick trail or the road extending from Lawrenceburg to Evansville.

The two local roads were official-

Increase, They Say, is Necessary to Care for Higher Wages Given Miners.

By United Press.

New York, April 1—An increase of from $1 to $1.25 a ton in the price of coal was predicted today by bituminous mine operators to meet the increased wages granted miners. The new contract giving miners an increase of twenty-seven percent in wages went into effect today. It was agreed to by both miners' union representatives and mine operators last night. The agreement will cover two years. The total wage increase will amount to $200,000,000 a year, operators estimated.

"SPUDS" WILL BE EXPENSIVE CROP

Good Seed Potatoes Retailing From $5.50 to $6 a Bushel and Are Scarce at That Price.

CROP FAILURE HELD AS CAUSE

Farmers and Local Gardeners Have Discovered That Prices of Many Seeds Have Advanced.

There was a time, not so many years ago, when Irish potatoes, familiarly known as spuds, were so plentiful that they were also as cheap as the dirt in which they grew. But that time dates back before the World War when conditions were described as normal.

The modern potato is something to be cared for tenderly. It is something to be protected and guarded. The modern potato has its eyes open to existing conditions and has observed that the price of everything has gone skyward. The potato of 1920 is in an entirely different class from the potato of 1916. This fact has been brought home very forcibly to local people who have attempted to buy a few tubers as a special treat for Sunday guests.

Not only the potato that is used for table use has gone up in price, but seed potatoes are also in the soaring class. Seed tuber are retailing at ten cents a pound or $6 a bushel and are scarce at even that price. A few dealers purchased potatoes a little under the present

Theodore Roosevelt Leads Fight to Reseat Members—Held Guilty of Disloyalty.

By United Press.

Albany, N. Y., April 1—The five suspended Socialist members of the New York assembly were expelled today on charges of disloyalty following an all night debate. An individual vote on expulsion was taken on each member. The five Socialists are: August Claessens, Louis Waldman, Charles Solomon, Samuel Orr and Samuel DeWitt.

Lieutenant Colonel Theodore Roosevelt led the fight for reseating them declaring they had not been proved disloyal.

The vote on Solomon and Claessens was 116 to 28. The vote on Waldman was 115 to 28 and the vote on DeWitt and Orr was 104 to 40. As the final vote was taken a wave of applause spread over the assembly chamber.

By United Press.

West Palm Beach, Fla., April 1—Richard Croker, one time Tammany boss, was to be examined by alienists today following the issuance of a temporary injunction by the Palm Beach County Court prohibiting him from transferring or disposing of his property.

The injunction was granted on petition of Croker's two sons and daughter who claimed he was mentally incompetent and was being unduly influenced by his present wife. The Croker children plan to ask for appointment of a conservator for Croker's estate estimated at $10,000,000.

SUFFRAGE IS VOTED DOWN IN DELAWARE

Amendment to Federal Constitution Lost in the Lower House of Assembly, 22 to 9.

SECOND DEFEAT IN TWO DAYS

Leaders Had Fanned Faith in Delaware Following Action by Mississippi Legislature.

By United Press.

Dover, Del., April 1—The federal suffrage amendment was defeated in the Delaware house here this afternoon by a vote of 22 to 9. Three members did not vote and one was absent.

The action of the assembly, opponents of the suffrage amendment hold, definitely removes this state as the possible thirty-sixth state necessary to ratify the amendment thereby making it effective.

Following the defeat of the amendment in Mississippi suffrage leaders had pinned their hopes on Delaware where they had concentrated their efforts since the opening the present special session of the legislature.

National leaders of both parties have appealed to the Delaware legislature to pass the amendment.

Suffrage leaders, however, do not regard the fight in Delaware as lost. The Delaware senate, they pointed out, has yet to act on the measure. Should it pass the senate it can be brought before the assembly again.

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN.

The accumulation of ashes, trash and rubbish in various parts of the city has given rise to the suggestion that a concerted clean-up campaign be conducted during the present month. Unsightly piles of debris which have collected during the winter mar the appearance of the majority of lots in Seymour. Alleys and even some of the main streets are in a disordered condition and the people of this city are insistent that some effort be made to clean-up before summer.

The advantage of a general clean-up campaign is that it becomes a co-operative movement. Property owners ers and residents who take pride in the appearance of their lawns and back lots feel that their neighbors should also remove the winter's accumulation of trash. A pile of tin cans and rubbish left in a section that has been put in an orderly and attractive condition stands out more prominently than if no one in the neighborhood had made an effort to clean up his premises.

In former years the clean-up campaigns have been conducted with great success. For the last two or three springs, however, the movement has been waged in only a half hearted manner. The campaigns have not been conducted as enthusiastically as those a few years ago. The war and other conditions served to prevent such local campaigns from getting the attention they merited. There is no question but that the city officials and the council would gladly welcome such a move. While the cost of removing the debris would be greater for a few weeks than if such a movement had not been started, the expense throughout the summer would be correspondingly lower so that the total cost to the city would not be enhanced. Such a campaign, properly conducted, would put the city in splendid condition for the summer months. The improved appearance would be worth the cost and the effort not to mention the value that would come from a sanitary standpoint.

IMPORTANT INTER-CHURCH MEETING TO BE HELD HERE

Conference to Discuss Plans of New World Movement Called for April 6.

A mass meeting of all Protestant evangelical churches co-operating with the Inter-church World Movement will be held at the First Baptist church here, April 6. The purpose of the conference is to give information to the people; to explain not only the origin and plans of the Movement but to show the definite relationship that each denomination bears to it; to prove that the getting-together, the co-operation of the denominations is the biggest thing ever undertaken by Protestantism in the history of the church.

An interdenominational team including four men and one woman will have charge of all sessions. C. H. Havens, of Herbst, has been appointed leader of the team. He will be assisted by H. G. Connelly, New Albany, W. F. Taylor, Vevay, Leo H. Miller, Eaton, Mrs. O. E. Badger.

The tentative program will open with a devotional period. An explanation of the part that each denomination will have in the approaching united financial campaign for $336,777,572 which will be conducted by the Interchurch Movement April 25th to May 2nd, will follow. There will be separate denominational conferences during the day when the plans for the financial campaign as it relates to each denomination involved will be discussed.

After the denominational rallies, the results of the foreign and home surveys made by the Interchurch World Movement will be presented by charts and stereopticon views. This will be followed by the presentation of the evangelical campaign to be conducted between Easter Sunday and Pentecost. Then will follow addresses covering the plans of the movement to develop the spiritual resources of the churches; to enlist men and women for whole time service propagating the Gospel; to promote the acknowledgement of the stewardship of life and resources; and to promote the program of missionary education.

A separate conference will be held at another meeting place from four until six o'clock to interest young people of the High Schools in the Life Service work. They will join in the general evening session at which time a stereopticon lecture of Home and Foreign surveys will be given. Rev. F. A. Hayward is convener for Jackson County, J. H. More is the publicity director.

Mrs. D. N. Green and daughter, Ruth, spent today in Cincinnati.

mayor was not a judicial officer, but later the state legislature made mayors in cities of the fifth class judges of the police court and the supreme court then held they were judicial officers within the meaning of the constitution.

Under the primary law declarations of candidacy must be filed with the county clerk before 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Because of the short time that is left before the expiration for the time of filing intention to become a candidate, it is not believed likely by Democrats that any other aspirants will enter the primary contest. This leaves but two candidates for the office, C. F. Lautzenheiser of Brownstown, and Samuel Carr, of Medora.

"I regret that my withdrawal from the race was made necessary at this time," said Mayor Burkart today. "I was confident of winning in the primary and I appreciate the support and assistance that has been given me throughout the county. It was suggested to me that I make the race despite the constitutional provision, but others whose advice I sought believed that complications might arise later thought it would be better for all concerned for me to retire now. As soon as I discovered the constitutional clause which I believed would bar me from the race, I consulted attorneys and made my withdrawal announcement as soon as I could thereafter so as not to embarrass my opponents."

Mayor Burkart formally filed his declaration of candidacy with Frank L. Schornick, county clerk, last Monday.

C.—The city of Berlin with adjacent districts now includes 3,801,235 inhabitants, according to recent issues of the Berlin press, which published results of the census started October 8, 1919. The most remarkable feature of the census was the considerable decrease in the city proper, census reports showing a loss of more than eight per cent since 1916. The effect of the war was seen in the fact that the number of males in the suburbs of Berlin increased only 933, while females increased 15,057. In Greater Berlin males decreased 54,000 and females increased 124,800.

Three Eskimo Hunters Arrive in Nome After Braving Perils in the Bering Sea.

Nome, Alaska.—Three Eskimo hunters came into Nome over the sea ice out of sight of land.

They said they had suffered from cold and hunger and that while hunting seals they camped on the ice off the mouth of a river 150 miles south of Nome. One morning they awoke to find a gale had torn their ice cake free and had carried it to sea. They did not sight land again until March 2.

The men reached Nome by working their canoe through the loose ice until they reached solid shore ice.

The REASON WHY

From the "Book of Wonders" copyrighted and published by the Bureau of Industrial Education, Washington, D. C.

What Causes the Different Colors of the Rainbow?

The colors of the rainbow, which are always the same, and are shown in this order—red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet—are sunlight broken up into its original colors. It takes all of these colors in the proportions in which they are mixed in the rainbow to make the pure sunlight. These are known as the prismatic colors. As shown in another answer to one of your puzzling questions, the rainbow is caused by the rays of the sun passing into drops of water in the air and reflected back to us with one part of the drop of water acting on it in such a way as to break up the pure sunlight into these prismatic colors. When a rainbow appears at a time when there is a great deal of sunlight, you will generally see two rainbows. The inner rainbow is formed by the rays of the sun that enter the upper part of the falling raindrops, and the outer rainbow is formed by the rays that enter the under part of the raindrops. In the inner or primary bow, as it is called, the colors beginning at the outside ring of color are red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet, and being exactly reversed in the outer or secondary bow. The secondary bow is also fainter. You may sometimes see smaller rainbows, even if it has not been raining, when looking at a fountain or waterfall. These are caused in exactly the same way.

Why Are Some Roads Called Turnpikes?

Undoubtedly the name turnpike as applied to some roads arose from the fact that pikes or gates were set across the roads by the keeper or toll-collector. In addition to collecting tolls it was a part of the toll-keeper's business to keep the road in repair. His wages and other expenses for doing this were received from the tolls collected from the people who used the road to ride on in carriages, wagons, etc. In the early days the toll-collector was armed with a pike, a long handled weapon with a sharp iron head, which he used to prevent people who travelled his road from going by without giving up their toll. Later on a swinging gate was built across the road, which made it unnecessary to use the pike, though the name was retained, for no one could pass while the gate barred the way. When the passerby had paid his tolls, the toll-collector opened the gate and let him pass. If he did not pay the gate remained closed and the driver had to turn back or decide to pay. Hence comes the name turnpike. In some parts of the country they call these toll roads.

Why Do We Call a Cab a Hansom?

The term is applied usually to a public vehicle, known in England as a "two-wheeler," or "Hansom" (from the name of the inventor), and drawn by one horse. In a hansom cab, the passenger or hirer of the vehicle sits immediately in rear of the dashboard, the driver sitting on an elevated perch behind, the reins being passed over the top. The term cab is sometimes also applied to a four-seated, closed or open carriage, drawn by one or two horses, the driver sitting in front. The term is also applied to the covered part of a locomotive, in which the engineer and fireman have their stations. The word cab is derived from the cabriolet, a light one-horse carriage, with two seats and a calash top.

In London, England, the cab or hansom was called the "gondalo" of the British metropolis by Disraeli.

What Causes the Gurgle When I Pour Water From a Bottle?

The air trying to get in causes the gurgling. Air has one strong characteristic which stands out above everything else. It wants to go some place else all the time. When it learns of a place where there is no air it wants to go there above all things, and goes at it with a rush.

Now, when you turn a bottle full of water upside down, the water comes out as the cork is out, of course, and as soon as the water starts out the air strives to get in, and every time you hear a gurgling you know the air is getting in. Every gurgling is a battle between the water and the air. Sometimes the air comes and pushes the water back enough to let it slide into the bottle; sometimes the water pushes the air back, and thus they fight back and forth. The water always gets out and the air always gets in. In doing so they make the gurgling.

Why Will Water Run Off a Duck's Back?

The reason that water runs off a duck's back, is that the feathers of ducks are oily and, as water and oil will not mix, the water runs off instead of soaking in. The feathers on a duck are so thick on the body of the duck, top and bottom, that even if it were not for the oil which is on the feathers the water would have some difficulty in soaking through the feathers. But the main reason why the feathers on a duck's back cause water striking them to run off is that the duck has an oil gland which is constantly producing grease or oil to make them slick with oil and when any water strikes the duck it runs off. Other birds which live in the water a great deal have this oil gland for the same reason.

Do the Ends of the Rainbow Rest on Land?

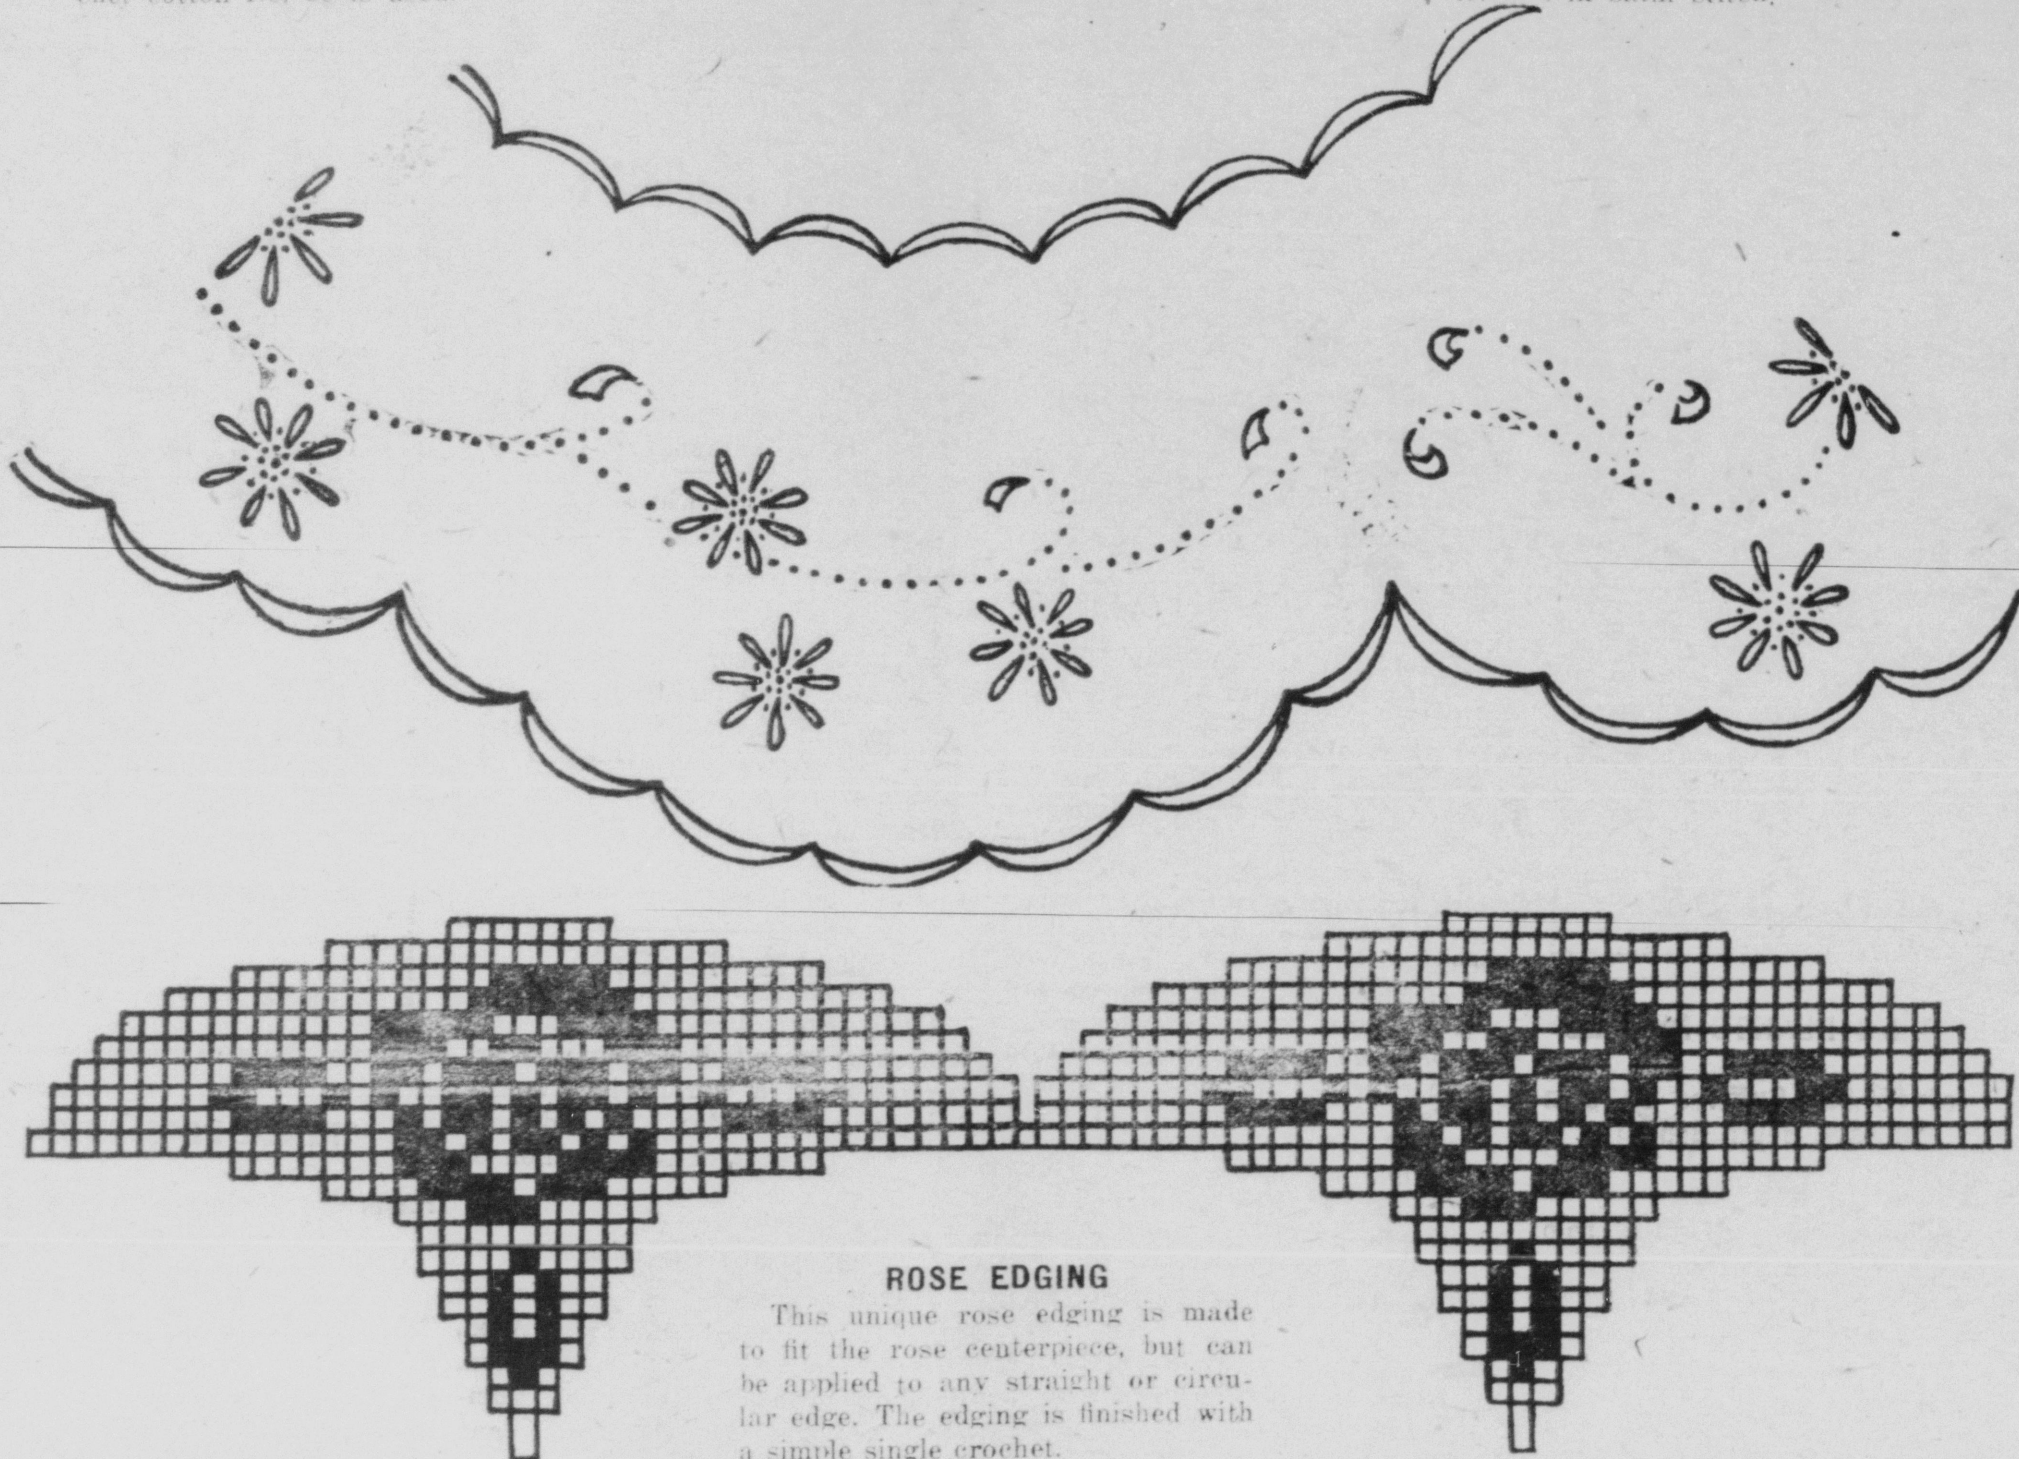

The ends of the rainbow do not rest on anything. You see, the rainbow is only the reflection of the sun's rays thrown back to us by the inside of the back of the raindrops, which are still in the sky after the rain. Of course, if any of the drops of water touched the ground they would cease to be raindrops and, therefore, could not reflect the rays of the sunlight. So what we think of as the ends of the rainbow do not really exist at all. The rainbow is

(Requested)

This block pattern in-grape design matches exactly the tablecloth given lately. Four sections are crocheted and then sewed to the square central section of linen as in the larger cloth. It is especially pretty. Crochet cotton No. 60 is used.

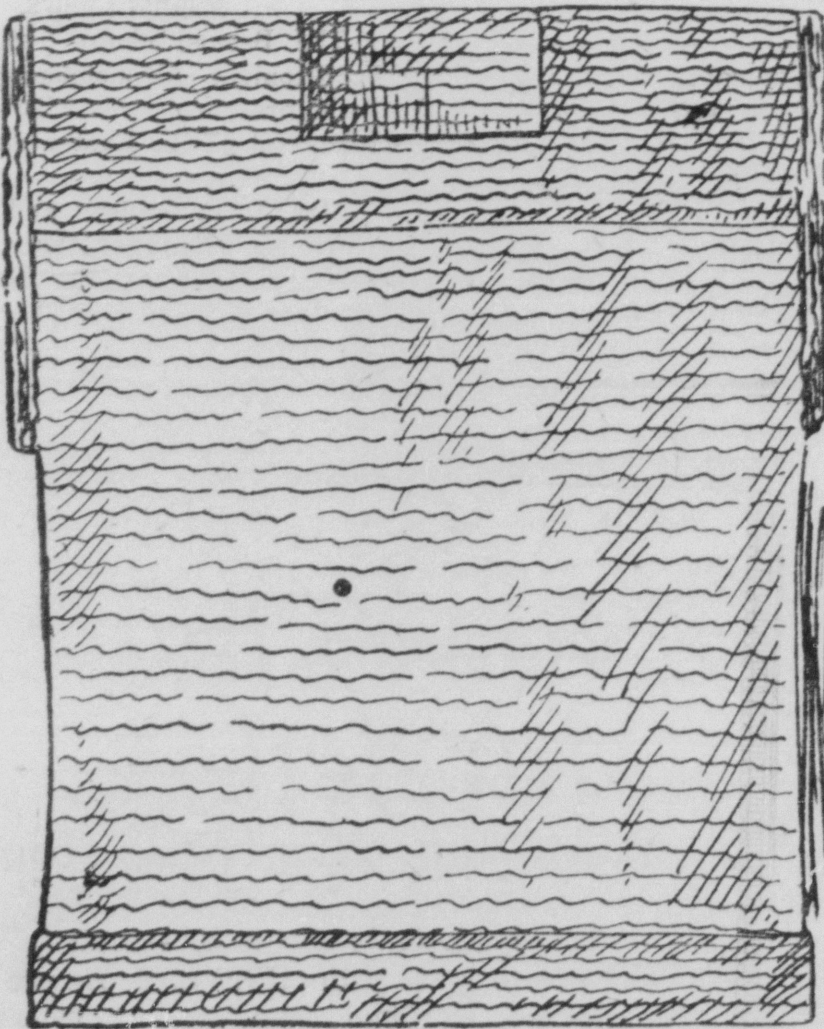

NIGHT GOWN YOKE.

For the dainty gown of crepe de chine this yoke is especially charming. One-fourth of the yoke is given and the remaining is formed by transfers. The work is entirely loop stitch and French knots with tiny leaders in satin stitch.

ROSE EDGING

This unique rose edging is made to fit the rose centerpiece, but can be applied to any straight or circular edge. The edging is finished with a simple single crochet.

SLEEVELESS SWEATER.

Knitting needles No. 5 are used and 6 balls of khaki knitting yarn. With double thread cast on 80 stitches, knit four inches. With single thread knit plain until sweater measures 21 inches. With double thread knit four inches. Knit 28 stitches, bind off 24, knit 28 stitches. Placing the first 28 stitches onto a stitch holder, knit the last 28 stitches 12 rows or six ribs. Knit the second only a reflection of the rays of sunlight from countless drops of water in the air, which the sun's rays must strike at a certain angle in order to reflect back the light so we can see it. Where the sun's rays do not strike the drops of water at the right angle no light is reflected, and there is the end of the rainbow.

Are There Two Sides to the Rainbow?

No, there is only one side to the rainbow. The rainbow is made by reflection of the rays of sunlight through drops of water in the air, but you can never see a rainbow unless you are between it and the sun. You could never see a rainbow if you were looking at the sun, and so if you are looking at a rainbow you can be certain that anyone on the other side of it could not see it, because they would have to be looking right at the sun. The rainbow is always opposite to the sun and there can never be two sides to it.

Spice Nuts.

Take one cupful of sugar, one cupful of flour, two tablespoonfuls of sweet fat, two eggs, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one-fourth of a cup of shredded citron, the same of almonds, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon, the same of allspice and cloves. Cut the nuts and citron very fine, sift the baking powder with the flour and mix with the fruit, nuts and spices. Beat the sugar, shortening and eggs until creamy, then add the flour mixture gradually. The dough should be stiff enough to form into small balls the size of a hickory nut. If too stiff moisten with milk, if not stiff enough add a little flour. Place on buttered tins and bake until light brown.

Wild Rose Cakes.

Take one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of butter substitute, one-half cupful of milk, three eggs, one teaspoonful of baking powder and one and three-quarters cupfuls of flour, sifted; one teaspoonful of extract of rose. Cream the butter, sugar and beaten yolks, add the milk alternately with the flour which has been sifted with the baking powder, beat well, add flavoring and

Training Little Children

By Harriet H. Heller

It is no wonder that during infancy and early childhood life's lessons are so difficult for the small beginner when the laws, which govern them must seem to him just or unjust, consistent or inconsistent, according to the knowledge or the caprice of the adult administering them.

One of the first lessons which the little child should learn is the proper care of his own possessions and respect for those of others, and a mother has the first opportunity to inculcate this important life lesson.

Since one of the strongest instincts of the child is to imitate, there seems no more logical way to teach this lesson than by example. If a mother teaches her child not to touch the articles on her desk or dressing table without her permission, then has she not the right to dispose of his toys without his permission?

The writer recalls an instance where a mother secretly put away a doll which had been given to her little girl, and for no reason except that the child already had a number of dolls and this particular one was "too beautifully dressed to be played with until the child was older."

Another common way of disregarding children's rights is to force them to give up some new or much-prized possession. For example, a little girl of six, who was delighted with the gift of a doll's fan, was obliged by her mother to hand it to her screaming baby in order to quiet him. In his excitement he soon crushed the tiny toy, his screams increased, and his little sister was broken-hearted! Nor had the unjust and short-sighted mother "saved the scene" which she had hoped to avert.

In each of these cases the child should have been consulted and her permission given before the mother disposed of the plaything. In this way the mother could have explained the reasons for her own action, and the child, in her turn, would have had an opportunity of expressing herself, a habit which should be encouraged. Then, too, personal responsibility for her possessions and the recognition of the right of ownership would have emphasized the difference between "mine" and "thine."

There is no better way to create habits of orderliness and a sense of responsibility than by giving the child a place for keeping his playthings and then allowing him full control of these possessions.

Show him how to use his books, how to take care of his toys, how to protect his pets, and then see to it that he has a shelf or a small bookcase for his books, a play corner for his toys, and an appropriate home for his pets.

After playtime require him to put away whatever he has been using, and let him understand the necessity for regular attention to his pets. Such training will of necessity react upon his character since possession entails responsibility. Ownership also teaches generosity, for without possessions how can a child learn to share?

It may not be out of place in advising parents to respect their children's possessions to add a warning on behalf of the children. Do not surround them with numberless ready-made toys. Give them blocks, boards, nails, a few tools, hammers, saws, planes, spools, scissors, thread cloth, dolls, paper, crayons, clay sand, and books. They will get more happiness from these possessions of constructive possibilities than from all the finished toys of the biggest toy shops in the land.

"Childhood has its own way of seeing, thinking, and feeling, and nothing is more foolish than to try to substitute our own for them."

Respect your child's right to his possessions and he will learn to respect the rights of others, and, with such recognition, there will be no fear for the outcome of his place in society. Help to reach all the parents of the country by cutting this out and passing it on to a friend.

MILLIONS Suffer from Acid-Stomach

Millions of people suffer year after year from ailments affecting practically every part of the body, never dreaming that their ill health can be traced directly to acid-stomach. Here is the reason: poor digestion means poor nourishment of the different organs and tissues of the body. The blood is impoverished—becomes weak, thin, sluggish. Ailments of many kinds spring from such conditions. Biliousness, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, general weakness, loss of power and energy, headache, insomnia, nervousness, mental depression—even more serious ailments such as catarrh and cancer of the stomach, intestinal ulcers, cirrhosis of the liver, heart trouble—all of these can often be traced directly to acid-stomach.

Keep a sharp lookout for the first symptoms of acid-stomach—indigestion, heartburn, belching, food repeating, that awful painful bloating after eating, and sour, gassy stomach. EATONIC, the wonderful modern remedy for acid-stomach, is guaranteed to bring quick relief from these stomach ills. Thousands say they never dreamed that anything could bring such speedy relief—and make them feel so much better in every way. Try EATONIC and you, too, will be just as enthusiastic in its praise. LADY LARKSPUR

By
MEREDITH
NICHOLSON

Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons

As they resumed their talk Alice, it seemed, was relating something of moment for Arrowsmith's benefit, referring now and then to Mrs. Farnsworth as though for corroboration. The scene in the box was almost as interesting as any in the play, and the audience watched with deep absorption. Alice, the least self-conscious of mortals, was, I knew, utterly unaware of the curious gaze of the house; whatever she was saying with an occasional gesture of her gloved hand or a shrug of her shoulders possessed her completely. I thought she might be telling Arrowsmith of her adventures at Barton; but the length of her narrative was against this, and Arrowsmith's attitude was more that of a critic appealed to for an opinion than of a polite listener to a story. He nodded his head several times, and finally, as Alice, with a slight dip of the head and an outward movement of her arms, settled back in her chair, he patted his hands approvingly.

In my absorption I had forgotten Montani's existence, but as the third act began I saw that he had gone. Whether I should put myself in Alice's way as she left the theater was still an undetermined question when the play ended. With Montani hanging about I felt a certain obligation to warn her that he had been watching her. I was among the first to leave, and in the foyer I met Forsythe, the house manager, who knew me as a friend of Searles.

"You notice that we're still turning 'em away," he remarked. "We don't have to worry about this piece; everybody who sees it sends his friends the next day. Searles hasn't looked in for some time; hope he's writing a new play?"

"He's West visiting his folks. Don't know when he'll be back," I answered. "I must write him that Sir Cecil Arrowsmith enjoyed 'Who Killed Cock Robin?' just as much as common mortals."

Forsythe had paused at the box-office, and in my uncertainty I stuck to him as the crowd began to surge by.

Arrowsmith's approach was advertised by the peculiar type of tall hat that he affected, and the departing audience made way for him, or hung back to stare. At his left were Alice and Mrs. Farnsworth, and they must pass quite close to me. "Who Killed Cock Robin?" was a satisfying play that sent audiences away with lightened hearts and smiling faces, and the trio were no exception to the rule.

Listening inattentively to Forsythe, I was planning to join Alice when the trio should reach me. She saw me; there was a fleeting flash of recognition in her eyes, and then she turned toward Arrowsmith. She drew nearer; her gaze met mine squarely, but now without a sign to indicate that she had ever seen me before. She passed on, talking with greatest animation to Arrowsmith.

"Well, remember me to Searles if you write him," I heard Forsythe saying. I clutched his arm as he opened the office door.

"Who are those women?" I demanded.

"You may search me! I see you have a good eye. That girl's rather nice to look at!"

Crowding my way to the open, I blocked the path of orderly, sane citizens awaiting their machines until a policeman pushed me aside. Alice I saw for a bewildering instant, framed in the window of a big limousine that rolled away uptown.

I had been snubbed! No snub had ever been delivered more deliberately, with a nicer calculation of effect, than that administered to me by Alice Bashford—a girl with whom, until a moment before, I had believed myself on terms of cordial comradeship. She had cut me; Alice who had asked me at the very beginning of our acquaintance to call her by her first name—Alice had cut me without the quiver of a lash.

I walked to the Thackeray and settled myself in a dark corner of the reading room, thoroughly bruised in spirit. In my resentment I meditated flying to Ohio to join Searles, always my chief resource in trouble. Affairs at Barton might go to the devil. If Alice and her companion wanted to get rid of me, I would not be sorry to be relieved of the responsibility I had assumed in trying to protect them. With rising fury I reflected that by the time they had shaken off Montani and got rid of the prisoner in the tool house they would think better of me.

"Telephone call, sir."

I followed the boy to the booth in a rage that any one should disturb my gloomy reflections.

"Mr. Singleton? Oh! This is Alice speaking."

I clutched the shelf for support. Not only was it Alice speaking, but in the kindest voice imaginable. My anger passed, but my amazement at Alice and all her ways blinded me. If she had suddenly stepped through the wall, my surprise could not have been greater.

"You told me the Thackeray was your usual refuge in town, so I thought I'd try it. Are you very, very cross? I'm sorry, really I am—Bob?"

The "Bob" was added gingerly, propitiating. Huddled in the booth, I doubted my senses—wondering in deed whether Alice hadn't a double—even whether I hadn't dreamed everything that had occurred at Barton.

"I wanted to speak to you ever so much at the theater, but I couldn't very well without introducing you to Sir Cecil, and I wasn't ready to do that. It might have caused complications."

If anything could have multiplied the existing complications, I was anxious to know what they were; but her voice was so gentle, so wholly amiable, that I restrained an impulse to demand explanations.

"Are you on earth or are you speaking from paradise?" I asked.

"Oh, we're in a very nice house, Constance and I; and we're just about having a little supper. I wish you were here, but that can't be arranged. No; really it can't! We shall be motoring back to Barton to-morrow and hope you can join us. Let us have luncheon and motor up together."

When I suggested that I call for them she laughed gayly.

"That would be telling things! And we mustn't spoil everything when everything is going so beautifully."

Remembering the man I had looked up in the tool-house and the explanations I should have to make sooner or later to the unimaginative Torrence, I wasn't wholly convinced of the general beauty of the prospect.

"Montani was in the theater," I suggested.

Her laughter rippled merrily over the wire. "Oh, he tried to follow us in a taxi! We had a great time throwing him off in the park. I'm not sure he isn't sitting on the curb right now watching the house ungraciously."

"You have the fan with you; Montani jumped right out of his seat when you opened it in the theater."

Ten Minutes with this Elegant New Chalmers Tells You the Story

YOU find it starts at once; that it is running with amazing sweetness in a few seconds. You note no vibration. You call for speed and you get results. You tone it down and you detect a willing and perfect servant obeying every wish.

Ten minutes gives you a recast opinion on motor cars. Your admiration for a Chalmers deepens. You search for the cause and you find it in Hot Spot and Ram's-horn.

You may or may not know that "gas" is worse this year than last, that it is becoming heavier and heavier and harder and harder to "burn."

Few engines have met this serious condition.

The great Chalmers engine has. It takes the low grade "gas," throws it against the Hot Spot, which vaporizes the "gas" into a "cloud," and makes it "fine for fuel."

Ram's-horn, minus sharp corners and abrupt bends, rushes it to the cylinders at a velocity of 100 miles an hour.

Thus the cylinders get a fuel that they can "burn," can "digest," instead of "lumpy" or "rainy" kind of "gas."

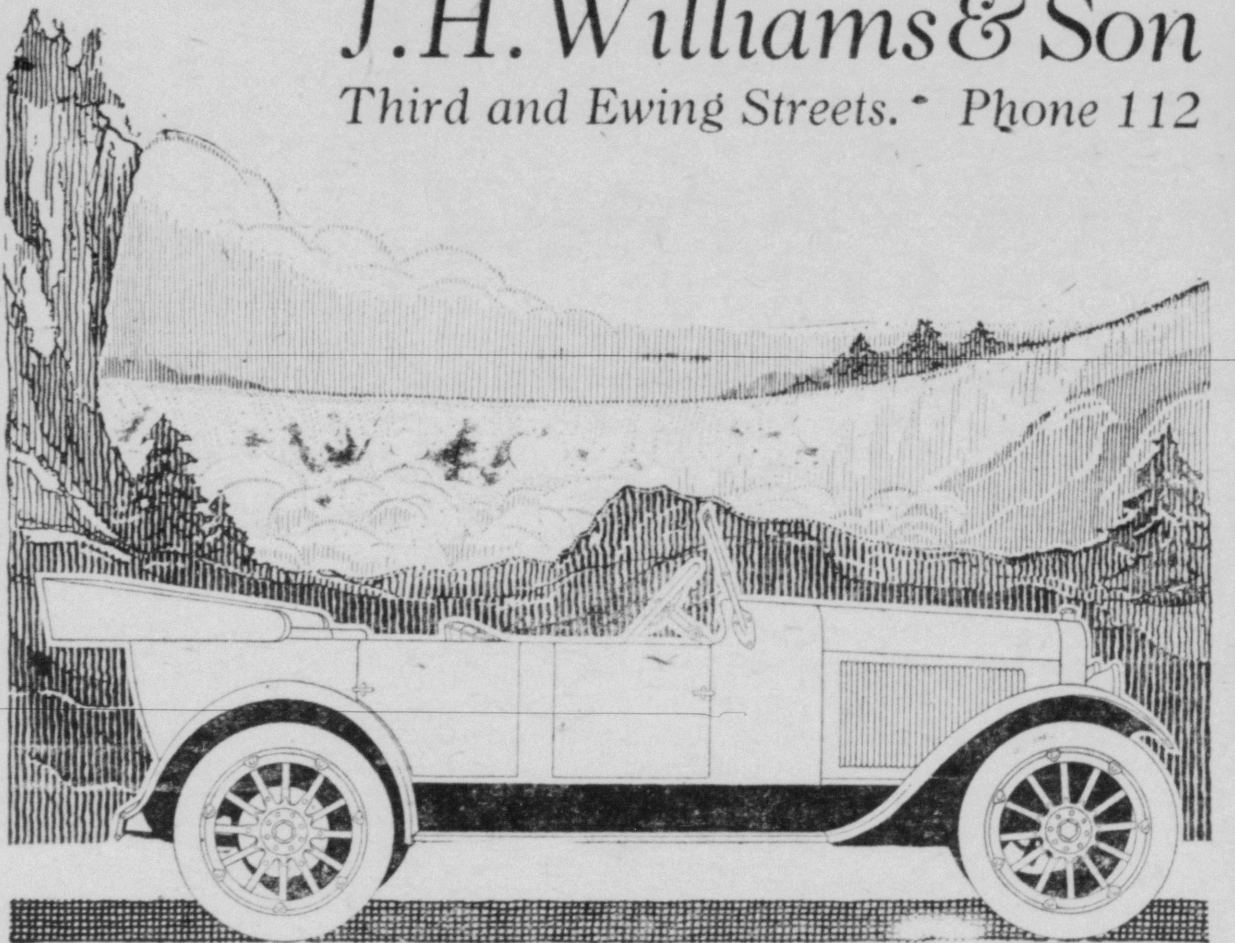

Not only can you note results in a distinguished smoothness of action, but in your repair bills.

For Hot Spot and Ram's-horn provide against thinned out lubrication and consequent burned bearings, scored cylinders, frequent fouling of spark plugs, and wasted "gas" through the exhaust.

Ten minutes will tell; and then you, too, will say Chalmers is one of the few great cars of the world.

This she received with more laughter; Montani amused her immensely, she said. She wasn't in the least afraid of him. Returning to the matter of the luncheon, she suggested the Tyingham.

"You know, I want very much to see Mr. Bashford's old home and the place all our veteran retainers came from. At one?—yes. Good night!"

Alice and Mrs. Farnsworth reached the Tyingham on time to the minute. As I had spent the morning on a bench in the park, analyzing my problems, I found their good humor a trifle jarring.

"You don't seem a bit glad to see us," Alice complained as she drew off her gloves. "How can any one be anything but happy after seeing that delicious 'Cock Robin'? It is so deliciously droll."

"I haven't," I remarked with an attempt at severity, "quite your knack of ignoring disagreeable facts. There was Montani right in front of me, jumping like a jack-in-the-box every time you flourished your fan. There's that fellow we've got locked up at Barton—"

"Just hear the man, Constance!" she interrupted with her adorable laugh. "We were thinking that he was only beginning to see things our way, the only true way, the jolly way, and here he cometh like a melancholy Jacques! We'll have none of it!"

"We must confess," said Mrs. Farnsworth condescendingly, "that Mr. Singleton is passing through a severe trial. We precipitated ourselves upon him without warning, and immediately involved him in a mesh of mystery. His imagination must have time to adjust itself."

SASSAFRAS TEA IS NO LONGER "LOW BROW" DRINK

Cost in Some Localities Has Advanced to 10 Cents for Three Bunches of Roots.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, April 1—Sassafras tea, believed more beneficial by many older citizens than a spring tonic, because of its medicinal properties, is no longer a "low brow" drink.

In fact it may have entered into the very best families, if price counts, for sassafras root along with other things on the list of living costs has advanced over what it cost a year ago, if reports to the state conservation department from several Indiana counties are to be taken as a reliable barometer.

The cost in some localities has advanced to 10 cents for three bunches of the root, double what it sold for a year ago. In other localities according to reports the price of 5 cents for three bunches—the same as last year—prevails, although dealers have reduced the number of roots in a bunch. Added to this the increase cost of sugar and its scarcity in some quarters makes sassafras tea really a drink that like most everything else, is on an upward trend. The demand for the root is unusually strong in all sections, the reports indicated.

The scarcity of sassafras root and increase in market value are attributed solely to the fact that digging sassafras in unremunerative compared to many other forms of highly paid labor. Particularly is this true as regards southern Indiana counties where the root in its abundance is looked upon in the light of a pest and nuisance.

March, April and May are the principal months when the demand is greatest for sassafras root for making tea, although there are some citizens, chiefly of the older generation, who drink a mild icee sassafras tea through the summer. Tea brewed from the root of the sassafras is considered beneficial as a blood purifier. Care should be exercised however, not to drink to excess for it is possible to so thin the blood, one readily becomes subject to cold.

Many Hoosiers look upon the advent of the market of sassafras root as a certain and unfailing harbinger of spring, as the close of winter season and the imbibing of sassafras tea are almost inseparably linked.

In the opinion of some dealers if the reported shortage is of sufficient proportions to create a stiff upward price, this condition may soon be alleviated for there is an abundance of the root widely distributed over Indiana.

Take Stock in Series A

Every six months, on the first Monday in April and October, the Cooperative Building and Loan Association starts a new series of stock. The next series A will open next Monday, April 6. You can take stock any time but the best time is when the series opens.

You pay in twenty-five cents per week for each share of stock you take. This money is loaned on first mortgage security and every three months the interest is apportioned to the credit of every series until the payments and interest amount to one hundred dollars. The stock is then matured and the full amount is paid to you in cash.

In the last several series the stockholders have paid in about $81.00 each and withdrawn $100.00 making a profit of about $19.00 per share. You may subscribe for as many shares as you can carry and your profits will be in proportion to the number you take.

There are many advantages to the building and loan association plan.

It encourages thrift through regular saving of small amounts.

It accumulates a cash fund ready for use when some opportunity presents itself.

It has enabled hundreds of Seymour people to own their own homes.

You can borrow on your stock repaying both the principal and interest in small weekly installments.

You can use your stock as collateral for a temporary loan.

You scarcely miss the payments each week, yet in a few years you have an appreciable sum of money.

Your savings draw interest which is credited to the stock every three months.

Hundreds of others have saved money by this plan. You can do likewise. Take stock next Monday and begin the regular saving habit.

See the secretary, Thos. J. Clark, Majestic theatre building and arrange for stock in Series A.

WEATHER REPORT.

Fair and severe local thunder storms this afternoon and tonight. Colder tonight. Friday clearing and much colder.

First Methodist Church.
Charles W. Whitman, Pastor.

The attendance last evening was the best of the meetings of this week. The service was devotional and refreshing. Our membership and friends are finding the meetings greatly worth while and preparatory to Easter Sunday service. Last evening Miss Nell and Miss Ruby Shertick were baptized by sprinkling and received into the church. Also Miss Eunice Alexander, Miss Nell Pease and Sylvester Pease were baptized by immersion. This service was held in the Central Christian church at the close of their prayer service. Their people united with us in this baptism service and there was manifest a beautiful spirit of Christian Brotherhood. We greatly appreciate the Christian kindness of the pastor and membership of this church for their cooperation in this baptismal service.

This evening Dr. L. T. Freeland will preach for us. We are always glad to have Dr. Freeland with us and he will bring us a helpful message. The second quarterly conference will be held at the close of this service. We cordially ask our membership to remain for the official meeting. We invite the public to worship with us in our passion week services.

Rev. J. Ross, J. W. Sell, Mrs. Palmer Murphy, Miss Esther Van Blaricum, Mrs. C. H. Kiever and J. W. Shaw, of Grammar, spent Wednesday in Seymour. While there they attended a church conference—Columbus Ledger.

No More Corn Suffering

"Gets-It" Never Leaves a Corn On Any Foot For Very Long.
The hurting "pep" goes right out of that corn the moment a few drops of "Gets-It" lands thereon. It is through, and "for keeps."

Corns and "Gets-It" Can't Live Together.
You'll have no more pain but will notice the corn getting loose and wobbly. In a day or so, you lift it right off without any feeling. That's the end of the corn and of your troubles. Millions have proved "Gets-It" to be the one and only unfailing common sense corn remover. Why not you?
"Gets-It" costs but a trifle at any drug store and carries a money-back guarantee. Mfd. by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.
Sold in Seymour and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by C. E. Loertz and E. F. Maxon.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS COUNTY UNIT ROAD LAW

Treasurer of Madison County Made Defendant in Test Suit Brought by George Forrey.

By United Press.
Indianapolis, April 1—The supreme court of Indiana today upheld the constitutionality of the county unit road law in the case of George Forrey, vs. the commissioners of Madison county.
Forrey sought to enjoin the treasurer and auditor of Madison county from issuing road bonds under authorization of the unit law. He also attacked the constitutional rights of the commissioners to determine on improvements under the law and then sit in judicial capacity on remonstrances against such improvements.
The decision affirms the ruling of the Madison county circuit court.
